HISTORY
9155

1. PREAMBLE

Zimbabwe is part of a global community with a historical heritage which is directly or indirectly linked to historical and contemporary regional and international events and trends. History is a key subject in understanding and analysing such events and themes, some of which have social, political, economic and cultural relevance to the country.

The rationale is to produce an open and versatile student capable of making judgement well supported by past and temporal evidence. Ultimately, Zimbabwean History students should be able to utilise the subject as a basis for action in determining their future governance, in elucidating their past heritage, whether pre-colonial, colonial or any other and in expressing the diversity of their cultures.

The syllabus is divided into themes, each of which is studied in the context of events in the past. Such a thematic approach encourages students to use independent study skills, to read widely, write fluently and to develop the capacity to formulate and justify their own ideas.

2. AIMS

- (a) To stimulate interest in History, acquiring in depth knowledge and understanding of various stages of historical development.
- (b) To promote the critical study of the subject.
- (c) To build and unite Zimbabwe.
- (d) To 'sell' the country's heritage.
- (e) To enable History students to acquire a wide range of skills to take up careers in teaching the subject in primary, secondary and tertiary institutions, in jobs in international law, journalism, development management and strategic studies, among others.
- (f) To sensitise students on issues of human rights, gender and democracy.

3. ASSESSMENT OBJECTIVES

The examination will test candidates' proficiency in the following skills:

- (a) the ability to make effective use of relevant factual knowledge to demonstrate an understanding of a historical period or periods in outline and themes under study.
- (b) the ability to interpret and evaluate historical evidence.
- (c) the ability to distinguish and assess different approaches, interpretations and opinions.
- (d) the ability to present a clear, concise, logical and relevant argument.

4. ENTRY REQUIREMENTS

Candidates must enter for TWO papers, each written in 3 hours. Candidates may not enter the African History papers only.
